W. F. BAKER'S WILL FOUND

TWO DE DS OF FORTUNE TO MURD AND BAKER CHILDREN.

Esstua Brother Says Estate is Less Than $1,000,000-No Arrests Yet, but He's Anxious to Cooperate With Public Prosecutor Keester-Letters Missing.

BOSTON, Nov. 5 .- The will of Walter Baker of this city, who died suddenly at the dme of Frank H. Hurd in Bogota, N. J., ome days ago, has been found. Frank N. Nay, who has charge of the legal investigation, gave out this statement to-night

"The will of the late Walter F. Baker has been found in Boston. It is dated February 7, 1907, is in his own handwriting and eviiently drawn by himself. By it he leaves 46,000 to his brother, Edward F Baker; $10,000 to Helen Bray Hurd of Bogota, N. J.; one-third of the residue to his nephews (two sons of Edward F. Baker); one-third to Harvard College; one-third to Natalie Hurd, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hurd. No executors are named in the

Mr. Nay said he did not care to say at this time just where in Boston the will was found. He also said that a full report of the chemical analysis of the contents of Baker's stomach had not yet been made and that he did not believe it would be returned for several days at least. When asked about the possibility of arrests,

"There have been no arrests ordered and none is contemplated in the near future. All talk of arrests at the present time is wrong. We have no evidence sufscient to incriminate any one. We are hard at work on several tangible facts, but they have not produced anything that would lead to an arrest at this time. The affair is still very much of a mystery." Edward F. Baker, a brother of the dead man, said: "Just at present we are depending on the detectives in New York who are trying to account for the time my brother spent in the Tenderloin the last evening of his life. That seems to be the vital thing now. There is no missing chauffeur that we know of. A young man named Gilbert was formerly employed by Walter, but I have interviewed him and he says he has not been with my brother for three months. He therefore cannot help us.

"I was surprised to hear that Public Prosecutor Ernest Koester of Hackensack N. J., is interested in the investigation of my brother's death. I am glad that he isbeing consulted, however, as the circumstances are so suspicious that the authorities may well assist us in ascertaining in what manner my brother took poison and who the guilty persons are if a crime was committed. We shall be very glad to cooperate with Mr. Koester and give him any information our detectives obtain. of my brother's effects, which came to me N. J. I find that they neglected to send me my brother's correspondence and also a number of photographs which were taken to New York by Walter when he went away last month. Many things which might assist us in our present investigation have not been forwarded. The statement that Walter left $1,000,000 is wrong. for he did not have a third of that."

It is understood on reliable authority that a strong net of evidence has been woven about four people, one of whom is a young woman of New York and a second a New York man, both acquaintances of Walter F. Baker. These two are sup-board to have been with Baker some time during his last evening between the time he left the Hurds at the ferry and the time n company with Mrs. Young and W. Brittingham, a New York decorator, ok the dying man from the chop house and drove him in an automobile to the ne of the Hurds.

Edward F. Baker was quoted yesterday as saying:

"Walter fell into the trap some time before he was finally ensuared. There were other means employed to obtain his property besides that of persuading him to will it away."

It has been denied emphatically by Lawyer Malcolm R. Lawrence, representing the Hurds and Mrs. Young, that Baker told them he had been poisoned

George Gould and Kubellk Among the Other Distinguished Passengers on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie - Much Done at Peace Congress, Say the Delegates.

The ship's company of the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, in yesterday from Bremen, Southampton and Cherbourg, was one of the largest and had among it more notable voyagers than that of any other speeder that has arrived here on a November day. In first and second cabin there were 691 passengers, which would have been considered only a few years ago, even in the last days of September, little less than wonderful. Among the voyagers were Joseph H. Choate and Gen. Horace Porter, delegates to the Hague Peace Conference; Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, John W. Gates and his son, Charles G. Gates; W. B. Leeds, George J. Gould, Jan Kubelik, the violinist, and his wife, the Countess Czaky-Szell; Arthur P. C. Benedict, Signorina Lena Cavallieri of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Commander J. D. J. Kelley, U. S. N.; William H. Crocker, Mrs. William M. Sloane, Lord Terence Brown, Major Creighton Webb and Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears. Gen. Porter said the result of his observations at the peace conference was that it would be hard to make war in the future America had offered an obligatory arbitration proposition which had received a two-thirds vote. The representatives of some Powers that thought it too radical had voted for it on principle. Gen. Porter said he had no doubt that the proposition would be adorted at the next conference said he had no doint that the proposition would be adopted at the next conference.

Mr. Choate wouldn't talk to the reporters until they had answered his questions as to the health of the President, the financial situation and whether or not the Republicans were supporting fusion in New York.

Then he said:

Then he said "Apparently people are not taking so much interest in the peace conference as they are in baseball, golf and lawn tennis. When they understand the situation they will realize that the peace conference was not a failure. Many things were accomplished. I do not care to say what they were until I turn in my report to the Presiwere until I turn in my report to the Presi

"There will be no more failures of any consequence. Things have come out just as I expected when I sailed for the other side."

John W. Gares was mum to all interviewers, but his son Charles said: "We engaged passage on this ship eight weeks ago. My father did not hurry, home because of the financial flurry. No. father is not broke. I have even got a Hoboken ferry ticket myself." Young Mr. Gates here pulled out a roll of yellow bills, remarking: "I thought the money market might be tight, so I got these at Cherbourg."

Young Mr. Gates said that he and his father had wen prizes for shooting in Paris, OBITUARY.

The Rev. Allen H. Brown, 87 years old, a retired Presbyterian minister, died at Montclair, N. J., yesterday from heart disease. Mr. Brown was born in New York city and was graduated from Princeton seminary in 1841. He then located at May's Landing, N. J., but after a few years became a synodical missionary and assisted in establishing many schools and churches in southern New Jersey. He continued his work in that capacity until September 28, 1900, when he retired. Mr. Brown was instrumental in raising funds for a monument to mark the spot where the first Presbyterian church in New Jersey was erected at Freehold. He was a member of the Historical Society of Newark. He wrote a history of the early churches of New Jersey. He is survived by a son, Silas Belden Brown of Hawthorne place, Montclair; two daughters, Miss Mary D. and Miss Louisa Brown, and a sister, Miss Caroline Brown of Montclair.

Frederick Webber, Dean and Secretary-General of the Supreme Council, Southern Jurisdiction. Scottish Rite Masons, and a veteran of the civil war, died at his home in Washington Monday night, in his eighty-first year. He was a native of Cork, Ireland, came to the United States in 1812 and located in Louisville, Ky., where he lived until the beginning of the civil war, in which served as Quartermaster. Afterward he was employed in the War and Treasury Departments at Washington, but resigned tenvers ago to devote himself to Masonic work. He had been a member of the fraternity for sixty years and had been Inspector-General, thirty-third degree, for Kentucky since 1850.

Wilfred E. Eaton of 89 Prospect street, East Orange, died on Monday at Liberty, N. Y., after a long illness. He was 44 years old and had lived in East Orange for thirty-eight years. Mr. Eaton was assistant treasurer and director of the Monotuck Silk Company of New York and a trustee of Trinity Congregational Church, East Orange. A wife and four children survive.
